GEORGIA IN COMMITTEE.

TURNER TO BE CHAIRMAN OF THE ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

Colonel Hammond to Have the Second Place on the diciary Committee-An Effort on Foot to Carry the Next Democratic Convention Democratic Convention
-Washington Notes.

Special to The Constitution,

WASHINGTON, December 18 .- Colonel Ham mond preferred the second place on the judiciary committee to the chairman of the elections committee, which he declined, By common usage he was entitled to the chairmanship of the judiciary, as he was the foremost democrat of that committee the last congress, and will rank as the ablest lawyer on the new committee. He has been on the judiciary steadily six years, while Randolph Tucker, the coming chairman, was not on it last congress. Mr. Turner, of Georgia, will be chairman of the elections committee. Thirteen contests come before the house, and he will have fine opportunities. He won the confidence of democratic leaders his first term, and will enjoy the rare honor of this important chairmanship at the beginning of his second term, and absolutely without his own solicitation. Mr. Hammond was so thoroughly identified with the judiciary that it is said he preferred any place on it to the chairmanship of any other commuttee.

THE NEXT CONVENTION.

Great pressure is being brought to carry the Chairmanship of any other committee.

THE NEXT CONVENTION.

Great pressure is being brought to carry the democratic 'convention west. Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati already have warm advocates talking up their advantages here, besides the democratic congressmen from the three states interested. The committee does not meet until February 22d, but its action is already one of the live topics of speculation. Westward the convention will probably go. The politicians from that section seem to have seized the reins of the democratic party. There is much curiosity and some anxiety to see whether they will drive it.

EMORY SPERE'S NOMINATION.

Emory Speer's nomination as district attorney went to the senate for the first time to-day. It will be confirmed without opposition. For his services in the recent kuklux cases in South Carolina, it is said, he will receive fifteen hundred dollars special fee. There will be no appointment for the Atlanta postoffice till after the holidays.

THE LATE MR. HASKELL.

The late Congressman Haskell, of Kansas, was one of those self-made men who rule the west in politics, finance and society. He never attained any special prominence in congress until the last session, when he was Mr. Kelley's most efficient lieutenant in the great tariff debates and evinced a thorough acquaintance with the details of the various schedules. He had enjoyed a state fame for several years and built his influence up into one of the most potent factors in Kansas politics. What he knew he learned without the training of the schools, and never had what is called a profession. In mercantile enterprises he amassed quite a snug fortune and was fast becoming rich in a country where a million does not entile its possessor to the distinction of opulence. He would surely have been one of the foremost republicans in the present house and Mr. Carlisle had already determined to put him on the ways and means committee. He was an intense partisan and was fast becoming rich in a country where a million deep not entile its san and was narrow in his political views, but he received general credit for honesty of motive and had many warm personal friends in both parties.

STRIKING AT RHODE ISLAND.
Senator Butler wants to improve the fifteenth amendment by inserting the word "nativity" along with "race, color and previous condition of servitude" in the guaranty to every citizen of the right of suffrage. Senator But-ler says the word nativity was in the origi-nal draft of the amendment but was stricken out through the influence of Senator Anthrough the innuence of Senator Arthony, who represents a state were foreign ers have no showing at the ballot box. Senator Butler says he was very much impressed by a scene he witnessed at a recent Rhode Island election. A negro and a white man approached the polls together. The negro voted and the white man was refused the privilege though he had fought in the federal army. He was born in Canada Rhode Island. Unless a man owns $134 of real estate there he cannot use the ballot. While Senator Butler believes in the rights of the states to regulate their own affairs in any reas states to regulate their own affairs in any reasonable way he does not admit the right to enact such restrictions on the rights of the citizen as are repugnant to the spirit of our republican institutions. Senator Butler, by the way, retains his unlimited pair with Don Cameron.
The latest news from Cameron is favorable to his recovery and may faisify the prediction his recovery and may falsify the prediction that he would never resume his seat in the senate by returning to Washingcon before the present session is over.

CONGRESSIONAL GOSSIP.

The two largest men in the house are Mr.

Dorsheimer, of New York, and Mr. Stewart, of Texas. They sit side by side. Dorsheimer is six feet four or five and so large that he seems unweildly when he rises to use his fog-horn voice. Mr. Stewart is almost as tall but of lighter build. He would make a good chairman, but Cox is the choice of most of the New York delegation, and will doubtless be appointed. Belmont is young and can wait. The Hill memorial volumes are out, and I learn from Senator Ingalls that there is an appropriate demand for them from all parts of unusual demand for them from all parts of the country. They are perhaps the hand-somest books of the kind ever pub-lished by the government. The frontispiece is a steel engraving of Mr. Hill sitting in his senatorial chair. The book is made up of all the speeches delivered in congress last session on the official an-nouncement of his death. The speech of Mr. Ingalls in the senate and that of Mr. Cox in the house are classics of eulogistic eloquence.

Colonel Hammond will not come home during the recess. He is improving and will probably be able to sit up to-morrow. He hopes soon to be able to attend to the correspondence which has accumulated during his sickness, and to take his seat by the time congress reasembles after the hol

The house is not as crowded with its three lieve by his proposition to have the desks removed. Like many other propositions of this statesman the motion will fail. It is seriously doubted, however, if the house ever becomes any larger. Mr. Herbert, of Alabama, has introduced a bill declaring that the number of members shall never exceed three hundred and fifty and at the next re-apportionment there will be an effort to re-duce the membership below the present num-

The youngest member of the senate is John Kenna, of West, Virginia, who will be thirty-five on his next birthday. I said to him the other night: "You are one of the youngest men who ever went to the senate."

"I suppose so," said he, "and yet there have been several younger than I. Clay you know was just past thirty when he entered the senate and away below forty when he first ran for president. Some people think his youth was the cause of his defeat. When Hayne had the great debate with Webster, in which I think he had the best of the steroid he was think he had the best of the argument, he was fully a year younger than I am." There are not many clearer heads in the senate than not many clearer heads in the senate than that of this young man Kenna. Riddleberger is only forty. Edmunds, who looks seventy from the galleries, is fity-five, only five years younger than Colonel Hammond and five years older than Governor Colquitt, who looks twenty years his junior. Mr. Morrill is the oldest man in the senate, being seventy-three, and Mr. Anthony is about two years younger.

F. H. R. THE SENATE OFFICERS

The Republican Nominees all Elected-Sharp Speech

by Mr. Beek.

Washington, December 18.—In the senate to-day, after prayer and the reading of the journal, several bills were reported back from the committees, and placed on the calander, among them one by Mr. Harrison, from the committee on sustaining and providing a civil committee on sustaining and providing a civi committee on sustaining and providing a civil government for Alaska, and one by Mr. Hoar, from the committee on privileges and elections, to fix a day for the meeting of the electors for president and vice-president, and to provide for the counting of the votes for president and vice president, and for the consideration of questions arising thereon. This is the bill which has passed the senate heretofore, but failed in the house. the senate heretofore, but failed in the house Its provisions have been already stated in these dispatches. Mr. Hoar gave notice that he would call up this bill on the first day on which the senate should be ready for legisla-which the senate should be ready for legislative business.

Mr. Van Wyck offered a resolution calling on the secretary of the interior to furnish copies of the mortgages given by the Texas Pacific railroad on the lands granted by the act of March 3d. 1871, also to inform the senate of the names of the railroad corporations now claiming lands that were not earned during the lifetime of the grant together with the number of acres claimed by each of said roads. The resolution was agreed to.

ELECTING THE SENATE OFFICERS.

At the conclusion of the morning hour, Mr. Sherman called up and asked for immediate consideration of his resolution offered diate consideration of his resolution offered yesterday that the senate do now proceed to the election of its officers, namely: Secre-tary of the senate, chief clerk, principal executive clerk, chaplain, and sergeant-at-arms.

The vote on taking up the resolution was taken by yeas and nays, resulting in yeas 34, nays 30. The division was upon a strict party line—Senators Mahone and Riddleberger votline—Senators Mahone and Riddleberger voting with the republicans—so it was agreed to take the resolution into immediate consideration. The resolution was then agreed to by a viva voce vote. General McCook was elected secretary, and at once sworn in. The remainder of the republican caucus nominees were then elected, the democrats voting for the present incumbents as a dissent from the departure from the civil service. voting for the present incumbents as a dissent from the departure from the civil service principles, and as a vote of confidence in the old officials. On the nomination of Wm. P. Canaday for sergeant at-arms, which was made by Mr. Sherman, Mr. Pendleton said the present incumbent, alluding to Colonel Bright, is the nominee of the minority of the senate for this position, but he would not move an amendment to the resolution offered as it would only delay the proceedoffered, as it would only delay the proceed-ings of the senate, and would be of no use. Mr. Beck called on the gentleman from Ohio (Sherman), who offered the resolution, to state what special fitness the new nominee had for the office to which he was nominated. Mr. Sherman replied that he was do ng just what the gentleman from Kentucky (Beck) would under similar circumstances He said that the gentleman whom he nom inated was well known to the senators on both sides of the chamber. He was a man of standing, of character, and well fitted to per form the duties of the office. He (Sherman) did not have a word to say and did not say a yord against the gentleman now in office Mr. Beck said he knew that whenever it suited the convenience of the gentlemen on the other side of the chamber, they held the civil service idea to be a mere humbug. They are now seeking to remove an officer who has ever been in office. Mr. Beek read from the Congressional Record some remarks of Mr. Angressional Record some remarks of Mr. Anthony," made in the senate in 1879, and in which he expressed himself in favor of retaining in their offices the men who had faithfully perfomed their duties. Yet now every senator on that side of the chamber was voting to put out a man who had done the work of the office to the highest satisfaction of every ice to the highest satisfaction of every nember. They had always been very loud in their claims when the democratic put a man out, and the moment they power the civil service rules are set wholly at aught. The election of Canaday was effected by a vote of 32 to 28

The senate then went into executive session, and when the doors were reopened went into committee of the were reopened weat into committee of the whole for the purpose of continuing the consideration of the new rules. The question pending was the adoption of the first of the new rules relating to the election of president protempore, and his right in case of his absence, to name a substitute who might perform the duties of the chair for three days. On motion of Mr. Garland a division of the rule was accounted to see to permit the rule was agreed to, so as to permit the first two clauses, which were not objected to, to be voted upon by themselves. On the o, to be voted upon by themselves. On the question of agreeing to the third clause which gives the vice president the power of substitution, some debate arose. Mr. Frye pointed out that in the house of representa-tives the speaker has the power to appoint a substitute for a period of ten days, and that that has never been objected to. He called for the yea and nay vote on the adoption of the clause objected to. Pending the vote on the rule, Mr. Frye moved an adjournment of the enate, which was agreed to.

SEEKING RECONCILIATION. An Effort to Bring Biaine, Conkling and Grant To Washington, December 18.—For the past two months an effort has been made to bring about a reconciliation between Blaine and Grant and Conkling looking to the next presidential campaign. An inkling of this has already reached the public, but as be-tween Blaine and Grant the statements have been premature. What was most desired, but was still unaccomplished, was stated as an already existing fact. This reconciliation has been sought through the mediumship of ex-Senator Chaffee, of Colorado. The original scheme contemplated the nomination of Blaine for the presidency, with the inducement of secretary of state held out to Grant and the senate to be handed back to Mr. Conkling. It was thought under this scheme, if it could be carried out, the repub lican party would enter upon the next cam-paign with a spirit of unbounded enthusiasm. It is now certain that a reconciliation between It is now certain that a reconciliation between Blaine and Grant has been effected. It is stated that Judge Belford, of Colorado, has been one of those acting the role of mediator. Belford, at least, had a long interview with ex Senstor Conkling at Chamberlin's, last evening, during which the political situation was privately and fully discussed. The precise details of the conversation cannot be obtained, as Belford will not talk, but he does not deny the character of the interview. does not deny the character of the interview. Domestic Capers, in Which a Wife's nor is Smirched and a Husband's Peace Destroyed — A Son as Witness.

CHICAGO, Ill., December 18.-There will ome up for trial at the coming term of the circuit court in Knox county, a divorce case n which an injured husband charges with the stealing of his wife's affections and honor a no less important person than Alfred M. Craig, justice of the supreme court of Illinois. The papers were filed early in August. At a listance of an hour's drive from Galesburg s the comfortable farm house of Mr. Pleasant Henderson. Away on three sides of the house stretches a farm of five hundred acres, most of it under a state of cultivation that recommends the owner as a thrifty farmer. Knock, and the door is opened by a tall, big boned man, with a hospitable look-ing face, a bronzed and knotted hand, but a dejected eye, betokening deeper troubles than those incident to the life of a farmer. Mr. Pleusant Henderson looks like a man who has patiently waded through a slough of sorow and came out all at once upon a chasm of lespair, where he had hoped to find the solid soil of peace and happiness.

THE GUILTY WOMAN. Enter the house and you will see Mrs. Josephine Henderson, the woman who declines to quit this house, though Mr. Henderson de-nies to her the right ever more to call him lusband. She is a woman to whom the word captivating may be applied with all its force. Rather stout, sne is still a magnificently formed woman. Her face and figure smack more of the magnificent than the beautiful. She dresses attractively. Her face is not fair; it is charming. Her keen black eye, fringed with long lashes and surmounted by finely-penciled eyebrows, flashes at you, whether it is accompanied by the jolly ring of laughter or the awful bitterness of her sharp and terrible tongue. Besides these two persons the household includes two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson. One is a sturdy man of twenty-five years named Benjamin. The other is a beardless youth of seventeen years, Jefferson. The Hon. Alfred M. THE BILL FOR DIVORCE.

Among the papers on file in the office of the clerk of the circuit court is Mr. Henderson's bill for divorce from his wife. In it he alleges that she has cruelly beaten him, and at one time had aimed a loaded pistol at him, which she snapped twice with the evident intention of killing him. The bill recites that Mrs. Henderson for months at a time refused to do any housework. Her husband and their two sons were obliged to cook their own meals and wash their own dishes. The bill contained no charge of adultery. In an bill contained no charge of adultery. In an affidavit filed among the papers Mr. Henderson says that at the time of the filing of the original bill he was aware of the guilt of his original bill he was aware of the guilt of his wife of the crime of adultery, and was desir ous to have his attorneys charge the truth, but "his counsel seemed desirous to make some other arrangements to procure the divorce to avoid the scandal that might ensue against W. M. Craig, the man who committed the said offense of adultery with defendant, and in that way shield him, on account of the official position said Craig held." It is said that Henderson's attorneys foresaw the scandal involving Judge Craig, and arranged with the attorneys of Mrs. Henderson that they would not allege adultery, on condition that Mrs. Henderson would put in no answer to the bill. Mrs. Henderson, it is alleged, violated this agreement, for in a short time her attorneys filed an answer to the complaint of her husband.

THE HUSBAND'S INDULGENCE.

The papers in the clerk's office show that following this Mr. Henderson, with new counsel, filed an amendment to the brief, accompanied by the affidavit mentioned above. In the amended bill he says, under oath: "The defendant, after basely betraying the true faith and honor of a wife and a true and confiding husband, ever patient and willing to minister to her many whims an caprices, and for the sake of their two chil fren to bear her most grievous and outraged emper, did, in the winter of 1882-83, shan essly, openly, and in the presence of h two sons, to manhood grown, declare that she had committed adultery with A. M. Craig, and that she was proud of it, as he was a better-looking man than afflant, and held a higher position than her husband ever could hope to

"Affiant further states * * * that endant made her brags to this affiant her attorneys cost her nothing, for Craig had employed them, and that affiant might as well withdraw his suit, for he could not get a awyer at the bar; such was Craig's influence hat he controlled them all.

In another affidavit, Benjamin Henderson wears that for ten years, except when the family had a servant, he, his father and his rother cooked their own meals and washed and often indecent language. Last winter language that she did so meaning the committing of adultery); that it was none of father's business, and she would do it again."

A number of witnesses were in attendance and the trial was an interesting one. an interesting one. Mayor Wright, of Jackson, said that about a year ago counterfeit coin made its appearance without limit and the county was being flooded with it and suspicion fell on the prisoner, but no positive proof was found and he was not molested. On the first of the present month a young man by the name of Henry month a young man by the name Benton was in a room with some other young and in a playful manner were throw Benton was in a room with some other young men, and in a playful manner were throwing each other about on the bed. While doing so three coins dropped gout of his pocket, they were picked up by Mr. E. L. Henderson and he took them to Mr. D. W. Jolly, the town marshal, and told where they came from and that he wanted to joke Benton. Jolly examined the coins and remarked that they were not the kind of stuff to have fun with. He then approached the mayor who told him the matter would be investigated. Young Benton had just been appointed town deputy marshal and was looking for silver to make him a badge. He was given the three coins by Washington and was waiting to have the Benton, in his testimony, stated that he had been shown by the prisoner a tin box containing moulds and dies. Other witnesses testified that he had been seen with spurious money. Washington lives about three miles ed that he had been seen with spurious money. Washington lives about three miles from Jackson on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, has a wife and six children, and is not a hard working man, spendshis time idly and has applied for license to sell prize candy, etc. He is considered a shrewd man and very tricky. Savannah News: The benefits of the board of trade were shown yesterday in the posting of the receipts and stocks of rice on the Savannah market. This is the first time that such information has ever been made known publicly. The reports to this date, made up officially by the board of trade yesterday, show that the receipts of rough during the past thirty days have been 169,7%, bushels, the total receipts since the first of September aggregating 589,226 bushels. The actual stock on hand yesterday was 288,028 bushels rough, and which would make the total stock in bushels, of rough 370,784 bushels rough, and which would make the total stock in bushels, of rough 370,784 bushels, from these figures it will be seen that the movement has been very slow, and the accumulation of stocks very much in excess of the consumption. It is shown that the volume of shipments have not been anything like the receipts, and the actual amount of the grain which has gone to consumption has been only 218,442 bushels, considerably less than one half of the actual receipts. This large accumulation of stock is now wielding its influence on the market, and at the present time is very oppressive to some holders, who have been free sellers at very much less than the official quotations given on the boards at the board of trade rooms. The general basis of trading has been about a quarter less than official quotations.

Dahlonega Signel: Considerable excitement prevailed on our streets on Tuesday, with regard to the reported of iscovery of a wenderfully rich vein of gold on lot of land No. 862, 12th and 1st, stnated about one and a half miles from town. This lot has been somewhat notorious in the past on account of its prominence in the proceedings of the United States court, having been sold for a good round sum by Senator McAfee and Colonel R. H. Moore to Colonel Emanuel Bast, who afterwards repudiated the contract and pleaded failure of consideration, thus throwing the land back on McAfee and Moore, the present owners. On Tuesday morning we went out to see in person what the excitement was all about. We found Messrs, Jake Logins and Willis Parker at the mine. They had gone down ten or twelve feet on the vein, which is about four feet thick, and were taking out ere with pick and shovel. We saw the ore taken out of its position in situ, saw it beat up in a mortar, and then saw ipanned out. A double handful of the ore panned out about a dessert teaspoonful of gold. This is, to all appearances, one of the richest strikes ever made in the country. We have some of the ore in our office, which needs only to be seen to be appreciated, and which we saw taken out of the vein. Our specimens are not nearly the best that we saw, but they are good. Emough of such ore would make us rich, and the supply seems to be practically inexhaustible. The vein gets richer as it is gone down upon, but if it only holds its own with the amount of ore that is apparent it is the biggest thing out. Messrs, Parker and Loggins think it is a continuation of the fish trap vein.

Holder had business above Florence and Sheriff Griffis sent him word to wait for him at Parramore's before attempting to make the arrest. This message Holder did not receive and during Monday night he went to Lee's house, accompanied by Wm. Sasser. Holder knocked at the front door while Sasser watched the rear of the house. When Lee heard the knock at his door he sat up in bed and demanded to know who was there. Holder replied that it was the sheriff with a warrant for his arrest. Lee cailed for his shofgun and said that no sheriff nor any number of sheriffs could arrest him and discharged the contents of one of the barrels at the door, about the height he supposed the officer's head was. The shot tore a hole in the door and passed within a foot of Holder's head. Holder then took aim through an augur hole and after his pistol had snapped twice fired one shot at Lee. Lee's wife then threw a bucket of water on the fire, which left Lee in the darkness of the house and Holder fully exposed in the bright moonlight. Sassar was then directed to go to Parramore's house for a shotgun and additional help. Holder then sheltered himself behind a tree, which stood about ten feet from the door of the negro's cabin. While standing there he heard Lee re-load the barrel of his gun with buckshot and pour some shot in a bottle dropping two of them on the floor. Lee, thinking that the officers had gone, attempted to slip out of the front door, when a shot from Holder's pistol made him jump back into the house and shut the door. In about half an hour Sheriff Griffis, Mr. Paramore and Sasser returned. It was at once determined to force an entrance into the house and shut the men expected to be met with a shower of buckshot. Mr. Parramore broke open the door with an ax and struck a match as he and Sheriff Griffis, Mr. Paramore and Sasser returned. It was at once determined to the house, but the louse, hoping to keep Lee at bay until help arrived, Lee made his esc

THE GRAND JURIES.

Findings of the Great Inquest of the People Under Oath.

The grand jury of Macon county finds the jail to be one or the many poor apologies of the state for the detention of criminals. Recent successful at tempts of prisoners to escape, shows that the contempts of prisoners to escape, shows that the contractor placed the iron bars (in the wall) fifteen inches spart instead of four inches, saper contract, showing a gross fraud on the part of the contractor, and a like neglect on the part of the contractor, and a like neglect on the part of the contractor, and a like neglect on the part of the contry officers in receiving the same. Repeated efforts of the authorities, with large expenditure of money has resulted in utter failure to render it a secure and safe prison. The board of roads and revenues have recently purchased two iron cages each of which is twelve feet square, at a cost of three thousand dollars, which are guaranteed by the manufacturers to be perfectly secure. Upon examination of the tax receiver's books great discrepancies are found in the valuation of property in all parts of the county, a large amount of the property being returned from year to year at much less than its true value.

The Mitchell county grand jury finds the total amount of taxable property of the county for the year 1883 to be $1,555,065, for which we find assesses for the year 1883: State tax 2½ per cent at $3,995.16; county assesses as follows: Jail fees, 50 per cent; bailifis, etc., 15 per cent; juors, etc., 53 per cent; public improvements 10 per cent; pauper purposes 29 per cent, making 140 per cent or state assessment, making the amount of $5,593.22. The total assessment of the county being $3.50 on the thousand dollars. We also find an increase of the taxable property of the county for the present year to be $55,000.00 over that of last year. The building of a jail is reccomended.

The Compress Company. From the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle. The Chronicle has already stated that Genera Clement A. Evans would become associated with the proposed compress company, to be organized in Augusta, and will probably be identified with the enterprise as soon as it is established; that is, Gen Augusta, and will probably be identified with the enterprise as soon as it is established; that is, General Evans, it is understood, has agreed to devote himself to this interest on the condition that it is started on a fair, financial footing tegether-jivith the aid of a prudent and progressive directory. General Evans is reasonably sure that such a business will pay the stockholders and that it will benefit Augusta as much as anything that can be set or foot at this time. The inauguration of such an enterprise, it is to be hoped will be followed up by a full canvass of the city. The full amount of stock—$50,000—should be taken and the compress and warehouse should be taken and the compress and warehouse should begin business unimpeded by any bonded indebtedness. The value of this company and these aids to the cotton business of Augusta will be incalculable. We should exert ourselves to the utmost to build up our cotton trade, increasing and improving our facilities for storing and packing, and by cheapening our methods of handling. The Chronicle cordially indorses this new enterprise and unhesitatingly commends the selection of General Evans as its president. General Evans as been long and well known in Augusta. No man can number more admirers in any community, and the high confidence reposed in him as a man of honor and of prudence, will do much tow "ds advancing the success and securing the stability of the new compress and warehouse company.

From the Madison, Ga., Madisonian. Simeon A. Atkinson died in New York on the 13th, from the effects of a fall, which occurred at his place of business, about one week previous to his place of business, about one week previous to his death. He was for a number of years quite prominent in Georgia journalism. He began his career in Madison about 1847, in the old Family Visitor office, and three years later, when only eighteen years old, became its editor, filling the cut-ir with such ability as to be called to take charge of the then leading literary paper of Georgia, published in Augusta, when only twenty-one years of age Several years later he established the Augusta Evening Dispatch, which he conducted with wonderful success until interrupted by the war. He was then called to take charge of an illustrated literary paper in that city, which commenced and ended its career with the war. After the war he was for several years editor and proprietor of a paper in Athens, whence he removed to New York, to take charge of the publication of the Forest and Stream, and was for some time connected with the Daily News of that city. Though of northern birth, Mr. Atkinson never faitered in his devotion to the state of his adoption, and was conspicuously battling with his able pen during the dark days of the Bullock reign, and though a poor man, spurned with righteous indignation the offer of a bribe, to wield his pen in behalf of the mongrel ring. From the Rome, Ga., Courier. On Friday evening Mr. J. H. F. McIntyre and his amily, from Banks county, arrived in Rome by the o'clock train from Kingston. Before leaving the rain a little servant girl with the family became very sick, with severe vomiting. The family scopped for a few minutes at the livery stable of Mr. William Johnson and while in a room above that establishment two little sons of Mr. Meintyre were taken sick in the same way and the family removed to the boarding house of Mr. N. M. Gomez, near by—one of the boys being so sick that he had to be carried in his father's arms. After going to their room in the boarding house Mrs. McIntyre was taken sick. All of them vomited excessively, and Mrs. McIntyre threw up a large quantity of blood. Physicians were called in, and the attention of the ladies of the house and others assidously given them. For several hours it was feared that one or two of them would die, but they were much better yesterday, though still feeble. They did not stop to eat anywhere while on the train—having a basket of provisions with them; nor did they eat anything in Rome. We learn that the remnants of the food in their basket were examined and nothing deleterious found in them. Mr. McIntyre is convinced that it was the water they drank on the Western and Atlantic train that mase them sick. This case is certainly a curious and puzzling one. very sick, with severe vomiting. made the butt of their jokes, and after exhausting other methods one of them picked up a parlor rifle and presented it at the country lad, whereupon he drew a pistol from his pocket and opened a fusilade upon them, putting them to flight, fortunately injuring neither of them, but teaching them a lesson which they will not soon forget. They will give country lads a wide berth hereafter.

Bailiff Pearson arrested a negro upon suspicion of horse stealing a day or two since. The darkey was seen in Macon about dark, one evening last week, and turned up in this country the next morning. A black horse was found in the same neighborhood that morning, evidently hard-ridden. The darkey claimed to know nothing of the horse, but told so many conflicting tales that he was jailed. No complaint having been made against him, he was released and the horse is yet without an owner.

She relates that on one occa sion Dr. Lovick Pierce was preaching a powerful ermon at Ruckersville and when he had reached the most eloquent part of his discourse, the bishop hen about two years old, commenced to cry so ustily that his mother was compelled to take him from the church and keep him out until the servi

Last week a stranger applied to the town council for license to sell jewelry on the street. After an investigation of his proposed plan of sale, the council agreed to issue him license for a fee often dollars per week. On Saturday he opened a stand on the street, ostensibly for the sale of jewelry but really—as our marshal soon discovered—for the purpose of gambling. After he had fleeced a few individuals he was arrested and carried before Mayor Swift and having plead guilty a fine of forty dollars was imposed on him by the mayor. He was accompanied by two other men, and before night state warrants were issued for the trio, charging them with gambling. It is thought that their troubles have not ended yet.

The Ferrilizer company expects to organize with a capital of twenty thousand dollars, They will apply to the town authorities for exemption from taxation for five years.

Elberton is on a substantial "boom" now and improving in a solid way. The new buildings being erected are of the very best quality. Business is getting on a firm basis and increasing rapidly. Property has a better settled value than ever before. The educational outlook is brighter than it has been for years and the people express and show more confidence in the future prosperity of the town than a tany time in its history.

There has been more hogs killed in Elbert county this year than in any year since the war. If the corn crop had been good, the county would have slaughtered more than a sufficiency of meat for home consumption.

A Goose-Eating Mule.

From the Meriwether, Ga., Vindicator. Mr. Robert Bonner, of Warm Springs district, has been losing his geese for a long time. He attributed his losses to the foxes which have their haunts in his neighborhood, though he was astonished to find the geese eaten entirely, nothing but a few feathers being left. One night recently, hearing a disturbance among his geese in the horse lot, he seized his gun and rushed to the lot to investigate the cause of gun and rushed to the lot to investigate the cause of the commotion. Getting as close as caution allow ed, he fired in the direction of the noise made by the struggling goose. At the report of the gun his ears were greeted with a most terrific squealing from one of the mules. A light being produced it was discovered that the mule had received a part of the load in his nose, a stray shot or two passing through the animal's ear. It was the mule that had been eating the geese and a bloody nose was, the result of his detection. No serious damage was done to the equine lover of goose flesh.

Burnett & Co., are also the makers of the purest and most delicious flavoring extracts for the cuisine.

Violent.

Corrosive sublimate is the usual form of mercury given for blood and skin diseases, and it is one of the most active and violent poisons. A case is on record of the death of a child from the effects of corrosive sublimate sprinkled on an secorlated sursace. Taken in small doses, for a length of time, it gradually settles in the tissues and bones, producing mercurial rheumatism and other disorders equally as painful. Persons who have been poisoned in this way, or who suffer from any blood compaint or skin humors, should by all means take a thorough course of swift's Specific, which is the only vegetable preparation which will eliminate this poison from the system. Poison.

Mercury has produced more misery and made more cripples than war, pestilence and famine com-bined. If you have any blood diseases or skis hu-mor it is your duty to yourself and posterity to take the only vegetable cure, which is Swift's Specific.

Swift's Specific has relieved me of Malarial Blood Poison after I had been confined to the house for five mouths, and had been dosed with blue mass, calomel, and other poisonous drugs until I was in despair. Swift's Specific is the remedy for this kind of blood poison.

C. M. CLARK,

FOR LADIES.

I have been using for a month or two in my household, Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), the greater portion of it having been consumed by the female portroy of my family, and with the happiest results. It acted like a charm on my wife, who had been in bad health for a long time, and for whom I have paid hundreds of dollars for doctors and medicines. It began to build her up from the first dose. Another female member of my family took it with equally satisfactory results. It is certainly the best tonic for delicate ladies that I have ever used, and I have tried them all. I have no doubt that want of exercise, close confinement in poorly ventilated houses, sewer gas poison and malarial poison often produce sickness among our wives, daughters and sistem, and I believe Swift's Specific is the remedy for all this sort of blood poisoning.

TREATMENT OF CANCER.

For twenty years I have suffered from a cancer on the side of my neck near the shoulder, and exhausted the whole catalogue of remedies without any relief. The cancer growing worse all the time, the whole upper part of my body became stiff and full of pain, I had virtually lost the use of both arms, my general health had broken down, and I saw it was only a question of time when life itself would be destroyed. In this condition I commenced the use of Swift's Specific. The first bottle relieved me of the stiffness in the neck, the second gave me perfect use of my arms, and I feel strong and well in every way. I am a poor man, but I would not take $5,000 for the good I have experienced with Swift's Specific. I believe it will force out all the poison and cure me.

City and Memphis, has now completed its transfer facilities at the latter place. There is no change o cars between the two points, and only one day for transfer is now required at Memphis.

In a few days about 100 negroes in one party are expected through here on their way from South Carolina to Texas. It is thought that within the next sixty days there will be a heavy movement of negroes from the Carolinas to the southwest.

THE Memphis and Charleston directors have decided to issue $1,000,000 6 per cent second mortgage bonds, and $500,000 7 per cent car trusts, authorized by the stockholders at the meeting in November. Private parties have made offers for both issues, which will probably be accepted.

THE Norfolk and Western railroad has voted to close the books on the 22d, and will declare a scrip dividend out of the earnings of the past year the amount of which is not yet determined. The company has earned a fair dividend, but has been obliged to expend large sums for new equipments to take care of its increasing traffic.

STEEL rails have during the past week sold at $30, which is $10.50 below the lowest price reach ed after the panic of 1873, and it is within $5 of the price at which foreign steel can be sold in this country, or in other words at which any protection whatever would be necessary to the American manufacturer. The price will go up again, but probably not very much.

cial to The Constitution. Augusta, Ga., December 18.—The railroad committee of the city council heard argument this af ternoon from the counsel of the Augusta and Knox ville railroad as to the right of the latter to run s track through the city and connect with the Port Boyal railroad. The street railroad claims the ex-clusive right to control the railroad tracks connect-ing the rarious roads. The committee will report to the next meeting of the council.

The Tennessee Commission.

From the Chattanooga Times. The action of the Louisville Nashville and East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroads in obtaining orders to restrain the railroad commissioner from revising their rates was a surprise to all, and from revising their rates was a surprise to all, and is the subject of conversation in radiroad circles. A member of the commission a few days since showed letters from the managers of both roads in question to a Times reporter, in which they wrote that they were satisfied in the highest degree with the work of the commission, and also that they would render the commission every service in their power to assist them in their work. These facts being generally known to the public, cause the action of the railroads to be rather puzzling.

The commission has just completed a schedule as a basis for the revision of the railroad rates of the state. Before adopting the rates named in the schedule they notify the different roads of the day on which they propose to revise their tariff in order that their attorneys may be present to suggest any corrections which the facts may warrant. The action of the Louisville and Nashville and East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroads have forestalled the commission in revising their rates. This, however, has no effect upon the commission regarding the rates of other roads.

Kennesaw Limited Express. Mr. W. B. Wrenn, general; passenger agent of the Kennesaw route, gave a Constitution man yeste day, a big item.

Y'ou may say,'' said Mr. Wrenn, "that beginning with Sunday after next a new passanger train, called the Kennesaw Limited Express, will be placed on our route. This will make six passenger trains leaving Atlanta daily by the Kennesaw zoute and the same number coming in.'

"Whas else can you teil me about it?"

"It could tell you more than you have room to print. This train will be composed of five Pullman sleepers and a baggage car. It will stop only at Dalion and at Boyce. The running time of the train to Chattanooga will be four hours. This limited express is rendered necessary by the increased travel on our route, to accommodate through travel, avoiding the delay and inconvenience of frequent stoppages. It will be the first attempt in the south to run a regular through train composed entirely of Pullman cars, and the time will be the fastest made on any southern road. You see the advantages thus offered through travel."

The Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio.

About the first of next year the people of Taylors ville will commence work upon an important railroad enterprise, and one that may eventually result in great things in the way of railroading in this state. They will commence grading the bed for the extension of the Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio railroad from Statesville to Taylorsville, by virtue of authority vested in them by the stockholders of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta railroad, lessees at their meeting lately held in Columbia. Mr. R. Z. Linney, a prominent lawyer of Taylorsville, backed by a delegation of citizens from that place, appeared before the meeting of the stockholders in Columbia and submitted a proposition to grade the track from Statesville to Taylorsville and hold it at the command of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta railroad company, provided the company would give them authority to do so, as required by the charter. A vote was taken upon the subject and it resulted favorably to Mr. Linney's petition. Though no pledges or promises were made by the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta stockholders, it is understood that as soou as the citizens of Taylorsville complete the grading, the railroad company will lay the iron and equip the road with rolling stock, making Taylorsville the terminus of the road, instead of Statesville, the present terminus. Mr.
Linney represented that his people would go to work immediately and push the grading to a sure and rapid completion.

Careful estimate made upon the work show that the cost of grading will not exceed 800 per mile.
The country between Statesville and Taylorville is level and the line of the road will follow a ridge that is within itself a most a natural grade.
Not a single bridge or culvert will have to be built,
as not even a branch will be crossed by the road between these two points.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 19 1883.

INDICATIONS for South Atlantic states: colder partly cloudy weather, local rains, winds shifting to colder northeast, rising barometer.

STRONG efforts are being made in Washington to have the next national democratic convention called for some point in the west. The western wing of each party seems to have taken hold of affars.

GENERAL ROGER PRYOR has returned from England, with the very emphatic impression that an English courtroom is no place for an Amercan lawyer, and that English juries are organized to convict.

THE Savannah Times Publishing company organized yesterday, with Mr. B. H. Richardson as president. Mr. Richardson deserves the credit of having made a daily newspaper success in the shortest time on record in Georgia.

CONGRESSMAN TUENER has been rapidly pushed to the front by being made head of the committee on privileges and elections at the beginning of his second term in congress. Mr. Turner is a brilliant, but painstaking man, and will not fail to sustain himself in whatever position he may be placed.

In the debate on the election of senate officers yesterday, Seator Sherman, with a boldness worthy of a visiting statesman, declared that the majority would not be bound by the civil service rules. Senator Beck forcibly pictured the humbugery of a system, which even its authors refuse to abide.

THE visit of the crown prince of Germany to the pope, from its length and the manne in which the prince was affected at its conclusion, is considered a grave subject of comment. It is hinted that in the alliance of conservative forces against demagoguery, Prince Bismarck intends to give the post of honor to the papacy.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA COMMISSION. The people of South Carolina have exercised supervision of their railroads only a few months, and already there is a strong desire for a modification of the law. The Charles. ton News and Courier advocates a change in it, and members of the legislature who voted for the existing law one year ago are now, opposed to its retention. Of course the stock holders of the roads in the state do not like a law that vests the control of rates, and consequently the value of their investments, in three men named by the legislature. Certain towns and counties of the state are also aggrieved on account of rates established by the commission; and while these districts poured in petitions against the law, the railroad lobbyists endeavored to show that no capital from other states would be put into railroads while the law remained unchanged. The combined pressure resulted last Saturday in the passage of a bill by the lower house that almost wholly changes the railroad law of the state.

Under the present law the South Carolina commission has a similar control over railroad rates as the Georgia commission has. Its will is law, and there is really no appeal from it, even if its rates are not strictly "reasonable and just." The bill passed by the lower branch of the legislature last week prevides that existing rates shall stand until the railroads make new rates. These new rates are to be submitted to the commission, and if the commission disapproves of them, the matter is to go before the courts for decision. In other words, all rates are, if the bill becomes a law, to be fixed by the railroad, and the com mission can only interpose a negative until the courts can pass upon the proposed schedule. The railroads and the courts would, in other words, establish just and reasonable rates. This practically abolishes the commis lon, for a body that has no power over tes has no power of real value.

The pend ng bill imposes, however, some limitation upon the railroads. The rates for first-class passengers are not to exceed four cents, and every passenger train is to have second class or smoking car in which passengers are to be carried at a maximum rate of two and a half cents a mile. Provision is also made for hearing appeals to the courts promptly, and also for the prevention of frivolous appeals. The companies evidently intend to earn the money they need from freights, and they do not want a commission to stand between them and their

A GOOD SELECTION

The city council exhibited excellent judgment last Monday night, in electing Mr. James R. Wylie street commissioner. We know of no election made under the present city administration that is calculated to give a greater degree of satisfaction to the people. A distinguished Georgian remarked, not long ago, that a good test in the selection of a person to fill a responsible office was to choose a man who possessed all the virtues and qualifications which a prudent man would desire to see combined in his executor. Taking this as a test, Mr. Wylie is just the man the citizens of Atlanta want for a street commissioner. The office, at the a street commissioner. The office, at the present stage of Atlanta's growth, is one of great importance and responsibility. No work in the city is of more importance than the was made of burlaps soaked in water to render it proper care and improvement of our streets. pliable and plunged into a thick paste of plaster. hilation, the people, or the wild beasts and soakes. The good citizens of Atlanta are willing and ready to spend the money required for keeping the streets in first-class condition, but they naturally desire assurances that the model of a Bible covered with plaster was placed more intense becomes the hostility of the inhabiwork properly executed. If Mr. Wylie is willing to assume the duties of the position of street commissioner it will be regarded as a guaranty that, to the extent of his influence, this will be done.

We have had no conference with Mr. Wylie but it is understood that he hesitates to accept the position. Under the circumstances, we believe that, after giving the matter due consideration, he will vield to the wishes of his fellow citizens and accept. It is known that he did not seek or desire the place. The position in this instance sought the man, and his refusal to accept would be greatly regretted, and regarded as a serious calamity to the city. The council displays a commendable spirit in selecting such a man for this important position and deserves encouragement in its efforts to bring the public service up to a high standard. If this policy is adhered to, and such men as Mr. Wylie continue to be selected for important and responsible positions, there will be no complaints of shortcomings in their depart ments.

The newly elected street commissioner may find it somewhat inconvenient to accept the position which has been tendered him, but he may be assured that there is an earnest and general desire on the part of his feilewcitizens to secure his services in this capacity RECLAIMING OKEFENOKEE.

A charter granted by the legislature au thorizing the construction of a steamboat and barge canal from the Atlantic coast to the gulf of Mexico through Okefenokee swamp will shortly expire, and an effort will be made to have it renewed. This effort, according to the Savannah News, will be antag onized by a syndicate of capitalists which has been formed for the purpose of draining and reclaiming the rich lands of the swamp. The grants of the charter stand in the way of the designs of this syndicate. . Our Savannah contemporary, in the course of a lengthy editorial on the subject, is disposed to lend its influence to the company in behalf of which the charter was granted, but it gives both

It is true the company has not fulfilled the terms of its charter, but there have been insuperable obstacles in the way. The News, however, says that extensive surveys have been made, and maps and charts made, and everything is now ready for the work to be-General Gillmore declares that the waters of the swamp are absolutely necessary to supply the summit level of the proposed canal, and the argument is that if the waters are drained and the land reclaimed, it will be impossible to construct a barge canal through the swamp.

We must confess that we are a little at sea o far as this barge canal is concerned. We do not remember that Colonel Philip Raiford whose scheme of a land-locked water-way from the gulf to the Atlantic coast is the only one worth considering in point of practica bility, proposed to use the waters of Okefe nokee swamp. He proposed, indeed, with General Joseph E. Johnston and others, to build a canal through the swamp for the pur pose of opening up to market the vast timber supply of that section of the state; but we are of the opinion that the idea of construct ing a steamboat or barge channel through Okefenokee, is an afterthought. If it is practicable, it is a very happy afterthought; if it is merely plausible, the legislature will not be justified in paying much attention to it.

There was some lively talk awhile ago about a huge ship canal in course of construction across Florida under a land grant charterquite a different affair from the compararively modest land-locked water-way. What is to be the upshot of all this talk about canals and water-ways no one can say, but we can all hope for the best. The element of probability enters into none of them so far as we can see, though they are worth the attention of capitalists who desire to invest their funds for the benefit of posterity.

We know nothing of the has been formed for the purpose of reclaim ing the rich lands of the swamp; we do not even know that such a syndicate exists; but f there is such an organization its purpose s well worth the attention of the legislature. The government survey made by General Q A. Gillmore has demonstrated the fact that 600,000 acres of land, most of it covered six to eight feet deep with decayed vegetable matter, can be reclaimed at comparatively mall cost. The swamp has an altitude of 117 feet above tide-water on the Atlantic, sixty miles distant, while the St. Mary's river conducts the tide-water to within ten miles of the swamp. This gives a fall of nearly 12 feet to the mile for the purpose of draining a water shed of 1,200 square miles. Within three miles of the eastern border of Okefenokee, Spanish creek starts up and flows into the St. Mary's some distance above tide-water. The bed of this creek can be reached by a ditch which may be cut at small cost, thus affording an outlet for a great volume of water which may be depended upon to make its own channel when it is once given a start to

If successful, 600,000 acres of the most fertile land would be reclaimed, and this land at $5 an acre would be worth $3,000,000. The Savannah Newsgives these figures for the purpose of calling attention to the rich results the syndicate hopes to reap; and there is no doubt that the legislature should look well to the interests of the state before taking any final action in the matter.

A QUICK way to make a plaster statue is described by a reporter who spent an afternoon in the studio of Marion Wells, the sculptor. A German Turnverein had ordered a plaster model of Martin Luther to be used as a center-piece in their hall during a celebration in honor of the great reformer. A wooden frame serving as a rough foundation for a gigantic man without head, feet or arms stood in the middle of the room. A lump of modeling clay and a picture of the statue of Luther at Worms lay on a bench near by. With a spoon-like instrumen the sculptor rapidly transformed the lump of clay into a striking likeness of the pictured head beside him. His assistant covered the clay head with a solution of plaster and water and it was ready to be fastened on the frame. The feet and hands were then made in the same way and secured to the sticks which did duty as legs and arms. The

A HISTORY of beards is a picture que record of male folly. Beards may be made both ornamental and useful, and yet at various epochs sundry nations have not only proscribed them, but made their removal a test of mental sanity and moral goodness. Not more than a quarter of a century ago Archbishop Tait, then bishop of London, forbade one of his clergy to read prayers in his church because wore upper lip. About same time Lord Chief Justice Bruce refused to allow a young barrister to address the court be-cause he wore a beard. In ancient times beards were universally worn and were regarded as sacred. After Greece passed her best days shaving became istomary. This fashion made its way from Greece into Rome, and soon prevailed.

After the first century of the Christian era some of the emperors revived the old fashion of eards again. In England the Normans introduced the practice of shaving, but after a couple of enturies beards reasserted themselves. From the second Charles, however, down to, say about forty years ago, shaven faces were the rule. These fluctnating fashions have not spared this country. Many of the older readers Constitution will recollect the surprise which they experienced when they saw for the irst time a bearded clergyman in the pulpit. It is impossible to predict whether the next generation will wear beards or remorselessly use the razor.

THE Sioux reservation has an area of about 33. o square miles, or just about the size of Indiana. The immense tract is supposed to be "occupied" by about 25,000 Indians, or on the average a little more than two-thirds of an Indian for each 640 acres. It manifestly absurd to allow the Indians to roam ver this country without any efforts to confine them to small holdings. So long as they have the arge tract they cannot be reached for the purpose of civilizing and Christianizing them. Besides, the and is now lying worthless and unproductive, while the white man is rapidly coming westward to abdue and cultivate it. This condition of affairs annot continue indefinitely, and the common thery is that the sooner a change is made the better After all, there is much apathy on the subject in outheast Dakota, back from the river. The reason of this is that, under the treaty made by the Sloux ommission, all the land lying between the White and Big Cheyenne rivers will be thrown open to ntry, but under the homestead law only. So long as the land is reserved, settlers are kept on their side of the river, and are compelled to enter or buy lands that would be skipped over if there was now the whole of the 11,000,000 acres, which the Indians are to surrender under the government, to choo

If a man sneeze once he is being praised; twice, he is loved by some woman; thrice he is talked of: four times he is taking cold. The wife must get up and build the fire because the erow calls to her. If two funerals meet it is good luck ut if one overtake another it is bad luck. If a child is born when its father is forty-one it will be disobedient. So the infant is placed in the street and a friend takes it to his house until the next day, when he calls on the father, who proceeds to omplain that he is lonely and has no child and then asks his visitor if he cannot give a child away. The friend has one that was found in the street with which he is willing to part. So the baby is re ored to its home and the evil omen averted.

It is said that minister's children are the grandchilden of the devil, but I don't believe that. It is better for a child to lie when he isa child, and be whipped for it and be shamed out of it, than it is to wait until he gets into Wall street where he will not need a conscience of any kind. It is a great deal better that a child should stumble and fall in the family. Give him liberty to sit; let him stumble again; he Give him liberty to site; let him stumble again; he will soon find out what he ought not to do at any rate. He is a ripe scholar, a learned jurist and a pure and good man. No act of hjustice would ever sully the ermine in which he would be clothed. That's the kind of man the people of Georgia should desire to occupy the position of circuit judge. No one is more capable than Judge Hook and his appointment would be hailed with pleasure by all who know him.

Feom the Springfield, O., Globe, ind. Unless some great revulsion of republican sentinent occurs in the seven months preceding the republican convention. President Arthur will un loubtedly control the nomination. It is not yet clear whether he will prefer to make himself the nominee, or whether he will east his option in behalf of Mr. Lincoln. That may depend on events yet to occur. But the judgment of this paper is that the republican ticket in 1884 will be Arthur and Lincoln

GOOD OLD TIMES.

The country has no quaintness left Of old time ways and ways bereft, With railroads every farm is cleft.

With rustic ways are planned and grooved, The well-sweep from the yard is moved; And not one spot is left unimproved,

Where one may sit at ease and dream, Not knowing much the age of steam, But simplest ways the sweetest dream; May ask the knittting grandam's views, Of church or state, or sweeter Sue's: And gather store of deighbor's news.

I miss the log in ingle side

The shadows cast by Tom and Prue, The apple peel that lovers threw, To prophesy what each one knew.

The parched corn and chesnut burr, Of twirling wheel, the pleasant whirr, The smell of savory thyme and myrrh.

The feather bed, where sinking deep, Embraced at once by drowsy sleep, No midnight vigil well could keep.

There stood the bearing apple free, That stooped so low for Tom and me, We clambered up it hand and knee. But most the spelling school I miss The sidewise look, the wafted kiss And then an after spell of bliss.

The quilting and the paring bee; The husking match, with lunche The Maypole and the wishing tree

Across the field no longer race The well-wnet scythes with even pace The reapers bowed with sturdy grace.

The pumpkin pie has lost its savor, Of cook books it has now a flavor; And doughnuts fashion does not favor.

Nor do they know the sweetest part, Connected with the sugaring art; The syrup stirred with Cupid's dart.

Ah, well I joyed to stand beside. The knee of him at eventide, Who taught me with parental pride And win a way to boyish heart.

Come back sweet days of simple ways The charm af romping household plays: The morning prayer, and evening praise

THE STATES AROUND.

FROM VIRGINIA TO TEXAS, AND KENTUCKY TO FLORIDA

Borders of Mexico-The Snow-Capped Hills-The Labor Question—The South Carolina Leg-islature—The Negroes of Danville, Virginia —Train Wrecked Near Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., December 18.-Two freight trains on the Louisville and Nashville railroad collided at Blount springs last night. Engineer Cooper and his firemen were badly injured. The engine and several cars were wricked. Ten men who participated in the recent attempt to lynch Posey have been arrested and will be tried in May.

Danville, Virginia. NO ACTION TAKEN BY THE NEGROES

DANVILLE, VA., December 18 .- The colored peo ple here bave taken no action in relation to the Danville riot. They have held no meeting and have made no report. It is said that Colonel Sims, who is now in Washington, will prepare a report based on the evidence taken in the contest against colonel flurt for a scatin the Virginia senate. At a convention in Norfolk a f. ways ago steps were taken for the formation of an immigration society, by which homes would be furnished for such colored persons as wished to leave Denville. No action on that subject has been taken here.

Columbia, South Carollus. THE LEGISLATURE.

COLUMBIA, S. C., December 18 .- The legislature eems determined to adjourn at all hazards next Saturday. Both houses are working night and day In the senate to-day the bill repealing the lien law was killed, also the bill to provide for the completion of the state house. To morrow the railroad war begins in the senate. The rival forces are about evenly divided, and a sharp and protracted fight is expected.

There is a prospect of an agreement between the factions. Each faction appointed a committee of three on organization of the convention. The of three on organization of the convention. The anti-administration caucus elected General Frances T. Nichols as their candidate. All is quiet. The conference committee unanimously agreed upon Judge J. M. Howell of LaFourche, as the temporary chairman, and that the committee on credentials shall be composed of seven from each faction, one to be selected by the temporary chairman. The administration faction claim 190 uncontested delegates, giving 15) to the opposition, and leaving 53 contested. This agreement was carried out. Judge Howell was made temporary chairman, and two secretaries from each faction were appointed. The roil call show d that all the parishes were represented except St. John. The committee on credentials was appointed and the convention took a recess until 7 p. m. The convention reassembled at 7 p. m. The committee on credentials asked till noon to morrow to report, and the convention adjourned until that hour. It is believed that Governor McEnery will be renominated on the first ballot. T. E Paso, Texas. ON THE BORDERS OF MEXICO.

By telegraph to The Constitution. EL PASO, Texas, December 18.-El Paso is Mex ican for "the pass." The old Mexican town acros the Rio Grande is "Paso del Norte." The Texan abridge their city's name. There is a gap in the mountain range at this place. The business portion of the city is 3,700 feet above the sea level, shut in by the Rio Grande on the south and by that river and mountains on the west, and by mountains on the north. The southern tion of it is a sandy plain, looking as if it might be been the original bed of the river. It was originally headquarters for the western division of originally headquarters for the western division of the overland stage court, used then for a corral, is now one of the main business buildings of the city: and the pince for front foot, running back 125 feet, is about $300. Pretty steep! The population is about 5,000 without the Mexicans, from Paso del Norte, who work over here and are legion. On a vote, as to the removal of the county site, a poll of 2,000 votes was shown. The Mexican is a success as a voter, and I predict for him a financial harvest, if Texas ever becomes a close state.

SMUGGLING INEVITABLE.

SMUGGLING INEVITABLE. My impression is that smugggling will always be earried on to a certain extent at this point; and with no other aid this alone would keep El Paso up. If property is not held at too high prices, for too long a time, this point will be a big Texas town The water is pumped from the Rio Grande into an immense reservoir on the adjacent hilis, and a second reservoir, just below the first, contains about an equal supply. The gas works are to be completed in four mouths. There is one street railroad completed, and another in course of construction. There is only $166,0 of of banking capital, and the two banks seem to be doing well. C. Q. Stanton, originally from Atlanta, and W. L. Hilis, from Rome, 6a, are here, and appear well fixed. Fort Bliss, a mile above the city, has a fine garrison of our troops. carried on to a certain extent at this point; and

THE SNOW CAPPED HILLS. The snow is seen on the peaks near by, bring the memories of a snow storm of the 10th, which even at Fort Stockton showed an inch or more on the ground. My trip from Stockton to Haymond, a depot of the "Sunset route," was made in an ambulance with a camping out of one night, when the rain fell in good force. This, together with the fact of missing two shots made at a herd of eighty deer at the water holes I camped at, made my camp disagreeable. All the officers at the fort turned out to see me off and wish me good speed, and the dashing young adjutant rode with me to the creek, and as he wrung my hands at parting, said: "This is a great country, but how I do long for a sight of a Georgia pine tree and a red hill with big gullies, and a little lady in Georgia whose memory has helped to pass many a weary hour," and the dew drop stood in the handsome officer's eyes as he hastily turned his face to the west and strode rapidly back to the lonely pots.

This soil is sandy, and the streets of El Paro are like those of Columbus, Georgia, after a rain. No sewerage yet, and very little sidewalk, with no paving. This city's growth dates about two years back. Its increase—like that of many Texan towns—was very rapid. At present real estate is not very brisk. Rents are high, but that is prevalent all over this state. There is coal about 140 miles north of here, and much is being said about a railroad to the coal fields. The principal trade here comes from Mexico, and the Mexican Central railroad, now 55s miles in length, from this place, northern division, has caused it. This road, which is being extended rapidly to the City of Mexico, is counted on here to build up El Paso very much, on completion.

extended rapidly to the city of acasto, is conficed on here to build up El Paso very much, on completion.

The surrounding country is not inviting, either for agriculture or stock, owing to lack of water so soon as the Rio Grande is left.

If there is no water on the land, in west Texas, the price is low for even the very finest grazing lands, The "Sunset Koute" has an artesian well at Marfa, that is 1,300 feet deep. A water car is attached to the tender at that point and hauled for many a weary mile to the next water station. All that land between these stations should have herds of cattle or sheep, but no water is the cause of its dearth of animals. The prairie dog is the only living thing, except the Florida gopher that I have seen, which seems to live without water 'that little animal, which looks exactly like a fox squirrel, keeps fat on nothing but grass, and in a year will destroy an immense amount of grass. A prairie dog town will move from one range to another, swimming rivers in their migratious.

THE LABOR QUESTION. The Mexican and the Chinaman have nearly absorbed the labor of this section of country. The former is the bricklayer and herder; the latter, the servant, though both are used for railroad track former is the bricklayer and herder; the latter, the servant, though both are used for railroad track hands. Sung Lee, Chong Sam and Wang Lung, laundrymen, show who does the washing here. Many Chinese cooks are in west Texas, as other labor cannot be controlled. The great trouble in housekeeping in this section is in getting reliable servants. Elegant ladies are often for days without servants in populous cities in Texas.

As for Texas, I have seen no state that is more peaceable or the people more inclined to treat those with civilty who conduct themselves properly and keep out of improper places. I was told in New Orleans not to wear a plug hat in Texas. I did not heed the advice, but wore one throughout the state, without having a remark made to me or a sign of ridicule shown. I have not failed either, as was my duty—as a correspondent, to take in the sights, such as horse racing and other sports Gambling is carried on more openly in many of the towns than in the eastern states, but not more so than I have seen just prior to the war in a now staid city nestled among the dear old red hills of Georgia. Texas has become a great cosmopolitan state and its people are anxious to increase its population and not deplete it. Of course there are many bad med in Texas, but the "rip siap-bang, here we go," shooting pistols and ridding races in streets is a rare sight, and one that less not fallen to my lot to witness. In a few days I expect to start for the city of Mexico, at the invitation of Colonel D. B. Robinson, the general manager of the Mexican Central, who has shown by his marvelous celerity in building the northern division of this road, such ability that he is now at the head of the entire road.

From the Charlotte, N. C., Observer, It is not generally known that there is a gold mine in Stanly county owned by the late President James A. Garfield. The mine is known as the Fagtown mine, and was bought by the president shortly before he was assassinated. President Gart field not only bought the mine, but established a the mine a postoffice called Flegtown. The mine has been lying idle, but the man in charge of the propery has received a letter from Mrs. Garfield stating that she intends to visit the mine in person next summer and make arrangements to have it properly worked.

TOPICS OF TRADE.

Wages.
FALL RIVER, Mass., December 18.—The reduction wages in the print cloth mills in Rhode Island, in New Bedford and other; places in this state, is causing considerable discussion among the manufacturers and operators here. Some prominent mill men say the reduction of wages must come in the near future, and that this would be resisted by the operatives there seems to be no doubt. The stock on hand is now over 45,000 pieces, and stock on hand is now over 45,000 pieces, and the outlook is not particularly promising. Some manufacturers urge that the reduction of wazes would be followed by a decline in the price of manufactured cloth, and that a reduction would, therefore, not afford any relief. The suggestion to curtail the production by shutting down one day each week, does not meet with general favor. One suggestion discussed is to shut down on Saturday next for one week. This would probably be favorsbly received by the operatives, most of whom would certainly prefer it to a reduction of wag s.

Henry Curry, a Walton County Murderer, Tries to Kill Himself in Fulton Jail. Henry Curry, a negro man confined in the Fulton county jail upon the charge of murder, made a desperate attempt to end his brief existence in this

The interior of the jail is divided into two floors. The second floor is about fourteen feet above the first floor, and is resched from the first floor by a flight of about twenty five steps. The opening made in the second floor for the stairway is a large one and is surrounded by an iron railing. About noon yesterday Curry who, though charged with murder, has been given the freedom of the jail, quietly ascended the stairway and after reaching the second floor advanced to the railing around the opening, and for a second stood gazing into the space below. After standing in this attuide only a second or two, he raised his arms and placing his hands together as one does when about to dive, he cried out to those below, "Look out down there." Before any one could surmise his objector interfere Curry sprang high into the air and then turning went through the opening head foremostat a rapid rate. As he fell he threw his hands behind him le aviug bis head free to strike the floor first. And it did strike and with such force that Curry was knocked seuseless. His fall, accompanied as it was with his warning to those below, created quite an excitement in the prison and in an instant Curry was surrounded by a half hundred felous by whom he was picked up. As his body was raised from the floor a stream of blood was detected flowing from a hole in his forehead. This together with the groans frightened the prisoners and loud calls brought, the jailer. Dr. Borring was hastily sent for and when he arrived he found that Curry had almost made a success of his attempt to suicide. His forehead presented an ugly gash but no broken bones were found.

Curry stands indicted in Walton county for mur der. Several months ago he killed a negro with an ax and made his escape. About four months ago Captain Couch accomplished his arrest and Curry was taken back to Walton county and jailed. Several days ago Curry fired the Walton county fail and threatened to kill his fellow prisoners (they interfered. CONTESTING FOR CASH.

The State and Treasurer Renfroe's Bondsmen to Litigate Over the Root of All Evib. The state of Georgia is about to begin pushing its claim against the bondsmen of ex-State Treasurer Renfroe for a sum amounting to about seven-urer Renfroe for a sum amounting to about seventeen thousand dollars.

It will be remembered that one of the charges against the treasurer when before an investigating committee of the legislature was that he had received certain interest and corumissions from banks for the use of the state's money. It is calculated that he in that way received about seventeen thousand dollars. Suit was filed at the time, but up to date nothing has been done with the case. The first suit was in the shape of an execution issued by the comproller general, but the supreme court held that there was no statutory bond. The attorney-general then brought suit against the sureties for the interest that Mr. Renfroe and his sureties had received.

The matter has rested until within the last few days when it has again become a subject for agitation. The suit is pending in Futon superior court and a trial within the next few days was desired but could not be secured, so that the case will go over until the next term. It will therefore be heard about next April.

Mr. Ben Hill, Jr., has been retained by the state to ald Attorney-eneral Auderson.

The Sliver King.

The Silver King. The five act melo-drama, with, the scene laid in Eugland, was presented at DeGive's opera house last night to quite a large and fashionable house, notwithstanding the coldness and dampness of the northern division of this road, such ability that he is now at the head of the entire road.

I will wire you about our trip through the mountain." The story is founded on some lines from Tennyson's "In Memoriam." The plot is simple, and the story is told without circumlecution. Its action is spirited, its episodes dramatic and strong it phases pathetic, comic and highly dramatic, its stage management excellent, its scenery attractive, the rendition on part of the company exceedingly good, and from the first rise of the curtain the sympathies of the audience were enlisted. The scenery is one of the features of the piece and where every scene, there being some sixteen in number, is so perfect, it is hardly necessary to make special mention. There are two transformation scenes which are masterpieces of the stage carpenter's skill; both received much applause. The piece is quite affecting, its moral commendable for it reaches the danger and misery of intemperance. Its theatrical quality is good, for it sustains the interest to the end. The cast is a strong one. As "Wilfred Denver". Mr. F. C. Bangs appears to advantage and displays his versatile dramatic talent. In his innersonation of the role of the drunkard, husband, fugitive. "Silver King," henevolent friend, detective and restored husband, heavissined them all with good taste and decided effect. In his remorse, his prayers while in deep distress, his courses in keeping his wife ignorant of his presence and his tenderness with her and his children, when at last he reveals himself, were all good. Miss Helen Blythe as "Nellie Denver," bore her share of the applause of the evening, and rendered in an acceptable manner the trilling and pathetic portions of her role. Praise is due Mr. F. Enten for his careful rendition of the part of "Daniel Jaikes," the trusted domestic. The "Spider" of Mr. F. M. Ross, the villian of the drama, was a clever piece of acting and well sustained. Mr. F. H. Dayton, as "Corkett," Mr. M. T, Quinn, as "Coripps," and Mr. M. J. Carlisle, as "Tremens," all gave capable and satisfactory productions. The company, too numerous to mention, is nicely balanced, and is among the best that has been here this season. The "Silver King," with its touching pathes and situations of thrilling interest, will be repeated to night, and e action is spirited, its episodes dramatic and strong it phases pathetic, comic and highly dramatic, its

NEW YORK, December 18,-There was less doing in the stock market to-day, and transactions show a falling off of over 20,000 shares as compared with yesterday. The market opened irregular, but soon became strong. Oregon and Transcontinental opened at an advance of 1% per cent, lost the advance and reacted 2; Union Pacific sold up 2%, and the general list 1/4. After midday the market was quiet and lower, except Lake Shore and Quincy, which were strong. During the greater part of the afternoon speculation was dull and firm. In the last hour a weaker tone prevailed and prices drop-ped % to 3% per cent, the latter for Oregon and Transcontinental. Quincy declined 1 per cent; Northwest 1½; St. Paul ¾; Lake Shore ½; New York Central 1/8; Northern Pacific 17/8; Northern Pacific preferred 21/8, and Wabash preferred 95/8, The market closed weak. Union Pacific was the feature f the day, this stock being in brisk demand throughout, and round amounts were bought to cover shorts. This stock did not sympathize with the weakness in the general market late in the day and ruled firm. Compared with yesterday's close, prices for Union Pacific, Quincy, Northwest, Louise ville and Nashville, Kansas and Texas, New York Central, Erie, Western Union, Northern Pacific Oregon and Transcontinental, Manitoba, Omaha, and Wabash were 1/8 to 21/4 per cent lower, and Rock Atlanta, December 18 1883.

Island and Union Pacific ½ and 1½ per cent higher.

Sales 346,000 shares.

THE COTTON MARKETS.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,

Atlanta December 8 1885.

New York—The cotton market appears to have undergone a complete revolution to-day. Opening steady at lower prices fatures were pressed downward with considerable force, and before noon ar easy tone made its appearance and subsequently weakness was a predominating feature. The close developed a loss of 8@12 points in prices, and the condition of the market suggests still lower prices. Spots unchanged and steady at quotations; mid dling 10 7-16c.

Het receipts for two days 120,652 bales against 122 553 bales last year: exports 67,004 bales: last year 5,736 bales; stock 1,235,036 bales; last year 873,712

NEW YORK, December 18-The Post's cotton mar ket report says: "Future deliveries, at the first call, lost 3-100. At the second call the decline had reached 7-160, and before the third call the entire advance of yesterday had disappeared. Yesterday's pur cha7es were mainly for covering recent short sales and it is said a large proportion was for New Or eans account. To-day it is reported that New Or-eans is selling here. At the third call December sold at 10.81; short notice 10.26@10.24; March 10.67, April 10.82, May 10.96—making a decline since yesterday of 9@10-100. Futures closed barely steady 10@11-100 lower than yesterday."

rible Spectacle That Met the Eyes of a Nurse Debauch That Ended in Death-Borrowing a Sick Man's Razor to Sever the Blood Vessels-Frightful Death at a Hospital.

Joseph G. Walsh cut his throat from ear to ear at the Ivy street hospital early yesterday morning, and in less than three minutes after the keen edge of the razor had parted the flesh and opened the jugular veins he was a corpse. The deed was committed at the dead hour of night when all around the suicide were deep

For more than a week Walsh had been an inmate of the hospital, and had been closely guarded and carefully watched by his nurse, alexander Walliby. On Monday night Walsh sat up with his nurse until about 10 o'clock, when he retired. After Walsh retired the nurse continued his watch until about 1 o'clock, when he tell asleep. In his sleep his mind has been populated with evil dreams and when he awoke and sprang to his feet it was only to see in reality what his brain had wrought in his slumbers. Before his eyes was a horrible picture. Flat upon his back in the middle of the floor was his charge with a purple stream running down his neck.

Walsh began drinking in October last and has been drunk nearly all the time since then. About ten days ago his system began giving away and delirium tremens ensued. Reptiles and all manner of hideous things constantly chased the man. He became a source of annoyance and anxiety to his friends, and on Monday last, one week ago, he was taken to the hospital for attention and treatment. It was not the first time by once that Walsh has been consigned to the care of the hospital physicians and consequently Drs. Butler and Mallory were somewhat advised as to the nature and disposition of their patient. They began administering whisky "antidotes," and on Wednesday last were greatly pleased to see their patient again rational. On the night of that day Walsh had a severe struggle with transitions. that day Walsh had a severe struggle with that day Walsh had a severe struggle with imaginary snakes, toads, frogs, etc., but by the aid of the physicians he came off conqueror and when he awoke from the sleep into which the exerions threw him, the heavy cloud had passed away. The remainder of the week passed by with gratifying and perceptible changes each day, and on Monday evening Walsh was informed, in response to his inquiry, that he might be able to leave the hospital in a day or two. The intelligence seemed to please him greatly, and to those about him he spoke in a hopeful manner of his return to business. To no one at any time did he even intimate any design upon his own life, and those who knew him best are at a great loss to assign a cause design upon his own life, and those who knew him best are at a great loss to assign a cause for the act. Monday night he taiked to his nurse and laughed at the jokes cracked around him. He seemed a little nervous and at times would jump as though suddenly frightened. He retired rather late and seemed anxious but unable to sleep. His nurse laid down on the floor and noticed Walsh's inability to sleep and finally went to the physicians for sleeping potion which he secured, and recommendations as the sleep as has been stated, and knows nothing

King is on the second floor of the building, and for Walsh to have reached Mr. King's room he would have been compelled to descend the stairway. Near the stairway on the second floor is a room which is occupied by a female patient who yesterday declared that she was aroused from her slumbers about midnight by a tramp upon the stairway. She said that she distinctly heard some one walk down the st-ps and then she heard the same "steps" ascending the stairway a few seconds later. She asserts that she thought at the time that the person was "in his stocking feet." It is She asserts that she thought at the time that the person was "in his stocking feet." It is now supposed that it was Walsh, and that he quietly arose without awakening his nurse and slipped down stairs and secured the razor while Mr. King was sleeping soundly. After securing the razor and returning to his room Walsh placed one hand upon the mouth and with the other made a clean cut across his throat. He then fell backward upon the floor and in falling made the noise which awoke his nurse. The wound was a horrible one. The

On the right side of the neck was a small gash made probably after the first cut was inflicted. On the left side was a similar mark. What few the left side was a similar mark. What few breaths Walsh drew after the physicians reached him were through his wind pipe. He made no effort to speak, and as he drew his last breath he gently and resignedly closed his eyes as though he were going to sleep. The spectacle was a frightful one. The man's clothing were satuated with his blood while a pool of his gore was all around him, prohibiting any one from touching without stepning into it. The room was thor ing without steppinging into it. The room was thor oughly searched for a note from the dead man but nothing calculated to throw any light upon the subject was found. The only witnesses examined were Dr. Butler and Mallory and the nurse Alex Walliby and their testimony was about what has here been written. The intelligence thus brought to the jury of inquest, induced them to return a verdict charging Walsh's deed to himself, and asserting that it was with suicidal intent and that it was committed while he was suffering from the effects of alcohol. After the verdict was rendered, the body was turned over to Undertaker Swift. body was turned over to Undertaker Swift body was turned over to Undertaker Swift, by whom it was removed to his establishment on Loyd street, where it was prepared for burial. The ugly gash across the throat was patched up with a needle and thread until no evidence remained of it to the naked eye. After being encased, the body was removed to the Purtell house, and from there it will be buried to-day.

Walsh was nearly forty years of age. He was a native of Ireland and came to America when a young man. He remained in New York a long time, and in September, 1875, came to Atlanta and began clerking for Mr.

John Ryan. He remained in Atlanta two years and then went to Nashville where he lived until 1879, when he eturned to Atlanta where he has since lived. returned to Atlanta where he has since lived. He was a fine judge of dry goods and found ready employment. He was engaged at different times with E. W. Marsh, John Ryan, Regenstine and Kutz, John Keely and Rich Brothers. He was a small man with a large heavy mustache and was greatly liked by those who knew him. He leaves no relatives in America that are known of. He will be hurried this evening. will be buried this evening.

UDGE M'CAY OVERRULES THE MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL.

The Banks County KuKlux Succumb to the Inevitable and Acknowledge That They Did the Deed -They Deny as to Green and Dilmus Yarbrough-Two Years and $500.

Yesterday morning the alleged but not famous Banks county kuklux, whose trial and conviction produced such a sensation, were carried into the circuit courtroom by a corps of marshals to hear the decision of Judge McCay on the motion for new trial and as it turned out, to receive the sentence of the court.

The prisoners were looking well. Their confinement in jail, if their appearance is evidence, has not injured them. They were all

The seven men arose. Neal Yarbrough was sick in jail and was not able to be pres-

Addressing the prisoners Judge McCay said:

"The grand jury of this district at this term of the court found against each of you a true bill charging the conspiracy of which you have been convicted. In view of the importance of the case the court caused a jury to be drawn from the box and summoned, designated and empanneled in accordance with the law not alone of the United States but of the state of Georgia. After a fair trial the jury so selected found you guilty. The offense of which you have been convicted is one of the very gravest character. The bitter and heartless cruelty as the evidence in this case exhibits. That the victims were negroes—formerly slaves—poor, helpless and ignorant, as it seems to me aggravates the offense. Their condition of life, their poverty, their ignorance ought to excite the sympathy of the good citizen instead of awakening the lower and more degrading purposes of their nature. In view of all these circumstances, but especially in view of the effect which the prevalence of such acts if permitted would have upon the free-

The scene was deeply impressive as the words were spoken. The five defendants who are to go up without further delay in the court are Jasper Yarbrough, James Yarbrough, Bold Emory, State Lemons (or Stacy Landerman) and Lovick Streetman.

Judge McCay overruled the motion for new trial on all the grounds taken. The constitutional questions involved had been elaborately argued by Messrs. Thomas, Heyward and Tompkins for the prisoners, and by Mr. Speer or the government. The judge said that there might be some doubt as to the jurisdic-tion of the court under the 13th, 14th and 15th amendment, but that under article 1st, ection fourth of the constitution, congre had the right to punish a conspiracy to injure the citizen for having voted at a congressional election. That was the gist of the decision. When the motion was overruled the judge

The offense of which you have been convicted is one of the very gravest character. The freedom of elections is a necessity for the good of this state, and of the greatest importance to the whole people. Of what avail is the form of a republic, the machinery and parade of ballots and elections, if the voter may not cast his vote without fear? What is the right of suffrage worth if it is to be exercised under the fear that unless it be exercised under the fear that unless it be exercised under the fear that unless it be exercised so as to suit the notions of the mob the vote will be waked up at night by a lawless band and be shamefully and cruelly beaten. The acts of which you have been found guilty are not therefore mere acts of violence; they are attacks upon the very vitals of the republic and if permitted to continue would make the right to vote a sham and a snare. The circumstances render this case a particularly aggravated one. The violence was in the dead of night, in the presence of the wives and infant children of those ence of the wives and infant children of those ence of the wives and infant children of those maltreated and the beating was most cruel and bloody. Indeed, one could hardly suppose it possible that without some special personal malice the heart of man could have been capable of such deliberate, bitter and heartless cruelty as the evidence in this case, exhibits. That the victims were of the effect which the prevalence of such acts if permitted would have upon the freedom of elections, and that those who do them may know that they are running the risk of no light penalty, I have not felt myself at liberty to treat this offense as a mere assault and battery, but to consider it an offense against liberty itself and to punish it accordingly. I therefore sentence each of you to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary at Albany, in the state of New York, and to a fine each of you five hundred dollars, and I sincerely trust that this sentence and its consequences will be a your custody, see to it that the sentence of the law is enforced."

Judge McCay told him that he would hear him. Yarbrough then made an astounding statement. Said he:

now tell me that they will swear this if they are permitted to do so."

Judge McCay said:
"Your counsel should have called my attention to that in the motion for a new trial." "I did not know it until last night," replied the prisoner.

Jasper Yarbrough then stepped forward

nd said and said:
"I speak for all of them, judge. We use ready to admit that we were here and took part in the affair but that bilmus Yarbrough and Mr. Green were not here.

"I would like to make a statement for my-elf also," said Jasper. "I was not the ring-eader as I have been called. The ring leader s at home, but I do not wish to state who he is at home, but I do not was a way is."

Said Judge McCay:
"I do not care to hear any further statement from Mr. Jasper Yarbrough. I will, however, withhold the sentence of Dilmus Yarbrough and Mr. Green for the present and allow their counsel to submit affidavits as to this newly discovered evidence."

By District-Attorney Speer—"I presume if your honor please that these affidavits will be submitted under the usual rules of a motion for newly discovered evidence?"

"Yes.,' said Judge McCay, "Mr. Thomas, make out your motion in the usual way and let us have it by Friday. I am most desirous to give to each and all of these defendants every right belonging to them under ants every right belonging to them under the law. The sentence will stand, however, as to the five defendants who make no such motion and who it seems now admit their guilt.

The Popular Desire for Diamonds.

The universal desire on the part of our people for investments in diamonds certainly must bring gladness to the heart of the dealer. Anyone that is a close observer at our evening parties must notice how much more pientiful these brilliants are now than they were but a few years since.

A diamond well bought certainly is a good investment, something the intrinsic value of which is at all times commanded in any market. Our leading dealer here must appreciate the demands of Atlanta as a market, for he displays this week perhaps the largest stock ever shown in this city, it is a treat to look through this beautiful stock displayed by J. I. O. O. F. Funeral Notice

The members of Capitol Lodge No. 60, I. O. O. F, e hereby notified to meet at the hall of the lodge I o'clock p.m. sharp. Wednesday, 19th inst., to tend the funeral of our late brother, W. D. Hockid, deceased. Members of sister lodges and visiting brothers fraternally requested io join us. By H. M. PATTERSON, N. G. J. B. CHAMBERS, Secretary.

ATLANTA. GA., December 15, 1883.

In order to devote more time and attention to may wholesale paper business and to the manufacture of blank books and paper boxes of every variety and description, together with my large steam printing establishment, I have leased to Mr. John R. Wilkinson the upper half of my large elegant storeroom fronting on Alabams street, together with a portion of the basement. I have also sold to Mr. Wilkinson my entire stock of blank books, and a large portion of my stationery stock and all miscellaneous and fancy articles with my good will to the trade in the same. I will continue to handle office supplies in connection with my printing and manufacturing, and can serve my friends and patrons in this line as usual. I predict for Mr. Wilkinson a full measure of success. I most cordially recommend him as a pleasant gentlema, with liberal and progressive views, with ample means to carry out his undertakings. I still occupy the remaining portion of the building as heretofore, my entrance being now on Broad street.

F. G. HANCOCK.

JNO. R. WILKINSON,

Remember, we have marked these goods at prices never before seen in Atlanta. We will continue the sale till first of January.

On taking an account of the Cloak Stock last Friday evening find just $11,357.00 worth of Cloaks in stock! This is a small stock when you consider that one month since he had $34,000 worth of cloaks on hand!

THIS IS SELLING CLOAKS "WITH A VENGEANCE."

BY REDUCING THE PRICE OF EVERY CLOAK IN HIS HOUSE AWAY BELOW THE POSSIBILITY OF FAILURE TO SELL IT!

HERE THEN WE HAVE THE RESULT:

Doubtless other merchants will call this an atrocious butchery of prices, but John Keely knows what he is doing! He will work out this end in his own way, no matter whose "air castles" may be demolished thereby.

NOTICE A FEW OF THE NEW PRICES!

There are 157 LADIES' BLACK FRENCH MATELASSE WALKING JACKETS reduced to $3.50 each, former price $7.00 each. The time has come to close them out and

"THEY MUST GO."

There are $3 beautiful Black Jackets reduced to $1.75 each. The former price was $5.50.

67 beautiful Black Jackets $2.50 each reduced from $6.00.

There are 178 Ladies Extra Fine Black English Walking Jackets, some braided and others handsomely trimmed otherwise, all extra fine goods—imported every one of them—$9.00, $10.00 and $12.00 each, former prices from $12.50 to $22.00 each.

The writer could be eloquent on the subject of this lot of goods did space permit, suffice it to say that such a lot of garments has never been on exhibition here before.

THEY ARE EVERY ONE "TAILOR-MADE" GOODS!

THE FIT OF THESE JACKETS IS PERFECT!

THE EFFECT, AS A GARMENT, IS SUPERB!

FOR SIYLE AND BEAUTY THEY ARE UNMATCHABLE.

They are of the beaviest and best grade of Stocking Net Cloth!

They are of the heaviest and best grade of Stocking Net Cloth!

NO QUARTER NOW.

Only 134 of those extra fine, Silk Ottoman Cloaks and Circulars left. Various grades, but all! all reduced to such ridiculously low prices as to guarantee their speedy sale!

32 Ladies' Black Satin Merveillieux Circulars—$7.50 each to close out!

Bought them, and low prices—crushingly low prices—will sell them now!
96 Ladies' Cloth Ulsters, all wool, goods worth $9.00 to $12.50 each. Will be sold for from $3.50 to $4.50 to close them out!

WHEN JOHN KEELY GETS READY TO CLOSE OUT A LOT OF GOODS HE HANDLES THEM WITH GLOVES OFF.

103 finest grade, Ladies' Cloth Dolmans, Russian Pelisses, Circulars, Haymarket Coats, beautiful goods, at about half their recent prices.

A small lot, say 200, ladies' fine-colored English Walking Jackets left! Extra nice goods! Come and get them! Price is no obstacle to their sale now!

Such sweeping reductions have never been made here before!

Ladies' Silk Plush Cloaks and Jackets, Ladies' Black and Colored Cloth Dolmans, and Misses Cloaks In considerable variety, all reduced in price, so as to guarantee their speedy sale. Cloaks will be sold without mercy from now until Christmas at
